

An Open Text by:

Prof. Anya Hageman,
Queen's University, with the research assistance of Pauline Galoustian.

Economic Aspects of the Indigenous Experience in Canada

- pre-contact economic norms and practices
- history of trade, dispossession, and treaties
- details on Indian Act, tax exemptions, reserve governance, and federal funding
- property rights and remoteness issues
- opportunities in infrastructure, housing, resource development, business development
- self-government and urban issues
- Active Learning suggestions for Instructors

Quick Treaty Summary, Canadian context:

- Prior to 1763 Non-interference or military alliance treaties. No formal land surrenders.
- 1763+ Ad hoc Treaties to acquire land which are negotiated by representatives of the Crown. However, surrenders of land from existing reserves were often not negotiated by Crown representatives.
- 1871 – 1926 the “Numbered Treaties” (see Chapter 9)
- 1975 + the “Modern Treaties” (see Chapter 15)

“I found the book accurately depicts the plight of the Indigenous as they found their way through a changing culture.”

- Chief Joe Bevan, Siksika First Nation, Senior Consultant at Humanity Financial Management Inc.

“A unique combination of economics and Indigenous history. Deserves to be widely used as a textbook and reference in all Indigenous Studies programs.”

- Professor Emeritus Tom Flanagan, Distinguished Fellow at University of Calgary School of Public Policy

“Impressive work pulling all this content together in a generally accessible form.”

- Professor Donna Feir, University of Victoria, Research Fellow, Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, IZA Institute of Labor Economics Research Fellow.

SCAN ME